CONCEPT NOTE

I- CONTEXT

The Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development (The World We Want) and the Agenda for Africa 2063 (The Africa We Want) have a common goal of people-centered social transformation. This can best be achieved through raising awareness of the importance of implementing Human Rights at the local and regional level, through the application of a holistic, human rights-based approach, and through the cooperation of all actors and stakeholders in this process.

This Online Capacity-Building Workshop is a high-level specialized preparation for professionals in the field of local governance who wish to improve their basic knowledge of Human Rights.

The specific theme of the Workshop is inclusion and equality for the guarantee of women's rights. Key aspects of the urban environment regarding access to services, mobility, security and the right to live without violence, health and hygiene, climate resilience and security of tenure, cause additional burdens for women and girls, amplifying and reinforcing gender inequalities. Advancing women's equality in cities enables more inclusive economic, social and ecological development, contributing to the common goal of "Leaving no one behind".

This training and capacity building workshop is also part of a celebration context, namely the Celebration of International Women's Day on March 8 and the 10th Anniversary of the Network of Local Elected Women of Africa (REFELA) and of the first axis of its Agenda dealing with the outreach of REFELA through capacity building of its members.

II- OBJECTIVE OF THE WORKSHOP

This online capacity-building workshop, in addition to promoting the importance of Human Rights at the local level, has the following objectives:

- Increasing political will and commitment and social demand for inclusive and sustainable cities, anchored in the fundamental principles of Human Rights, the 2030 and 2063 Agendas, the New Urban Agenda and the African Charter on the Values and Principles of Decentralization, Local Governance and Local Development;
- Increasing the commitment of local political actors in the field of Human Rights, as well as the appreciation, capacity and determination of urban planners and decision-makers to promote inclusion through various systems, policies and processes;
- The implementation of field-tested methods and policy instruments for the promotion of Human Rights at the local level, such as the Toolkit for Urban Inclusion in Arab Cities, according to the specific contexts of the participants;
- The opportunity for Local Governments, experts, local civil servants as well as components of the Civil Society to improve their capacities in the field of Human Rights;
- The provision of a platform to exchange experiences and good practices, and to initiate in-depth learning among participants.

III- EXPECTED RESULTS

The beneficiaries of this Workshop will be equipped with knowledge and tools to make cities more inclusive, with a focus on a Human Rights-based approach, particularly Women's Rights. The outcomes of this online workshop will also contribute to the development of a new policy model for inclusive cities for women.

At the end of the Workshop, participants who have attended and completed the two days of training will receive a certificate from the Organizers.

IV- PEDAGOGICAL AND METHODOLOGICAL APPROACH

The Workshop is based on the principles of andragogy and will take place in a knowledge-building setting, drawing on the expertise and experience of the participants and the contributions of the Facilitators.

It will be conducted over two (2) consecutive days and the time allocated to the activities will be 2.5 hours per day.

During this workshop, participants will become familiar with the most relevant concepts regarding the protection of Human Rights in general and at the local level, the African Human Rights architecture and inclusive cities. Concrete examples will illustrate the links between the effective exercise of the functions of cities and the commitment to leave no one behind, as well as the relationship between Gender and Human Rights. The presentations will be interactive, with time for questions and discussion.

Participants are a key resource for this Workshop. They have practical experience, knowledge of local policies and are familiar with the topics of the Workshop. Guided by human rights experts, participants will analyze concepts, human rights aspects, arguments and examples for gender programs and policies in their cities. Together, they will identify the conditions that enable the implementation of policies and programs, the key actors, and how to initiate dialogue with them. They will also discuss the practical steps and challenges cities face in ensuring that no one is left behind and how to overcome these challenges.

The information collected will be analyzed and will contribute to creating an inventory of good policies to strengthen inclusive practices for women at the local and regional level.

V- MODALITIES

This Online Capacity Building Workshop will be led and facilitated by the International Centre for the Promotion of Human Rights at the Local and Regional Levels under the auspices of UNESCO supported by its Partners. It is organized in cooperation with United Cities and Local Governments of Africa (UCLG Africa), through its African Local Governments Academy (ALGA) and the Network of Local Elected Women of Africa (REFELA), which is its Gender Commission.

The work of the workshop, which will be organized remotely, will be held in French, with simultaneous translation into English, Arabic and Portuguese. It will be designed in the form of a Webinar.

Communication and collaboration tools will be provided through UCLG Africa. Links and access codes will be provided to participants.

Pre-registration for the event is required, via the link UCLG -Africa.

Participation is free of charge.
